1

Set the tumblers to the pre-set factory combination. This is generally all zeroes, though this can differ depending on the brand of your lock.

2

Pull out the lock's shackle, then turn it around halfway and push it in. Hold the shackle down, then turn it one quarter turn in any direction.

3

Set a combination of your choosing while still holding the shackle down. Do not use any number that could be easily guessed, including your address, birthday or part of a phone number. Avoid using the same number for all digits of the combination.

4

Replace the shackle in its original position without turning the lock's dials. Pull the shackle back out, then turn it 180 degrees.

5

Push the shackle in, then turn the dials to lock it. Open the lock by turning the dials to the chosen combination.
